

Elevating, Advocating for, and Empowering Nurses to Advance Health Equity and Transform Health Care

Johnson&Johnson

For more than 125 years, Johnson & Johnson has been proud to advocate for, elevate, and empower the nursing profession, as we know that nurses are the backbone of health care.

With innovative mindsets, invaluable insights, and hands-on experience, nurses are uniquely positioned to move health care forward. We know it takes nurses to make health care work, and when we work together to support nurses, we are advancing better health for all.

Today, we are continuing our legacy of support by working with partners to champion and bolster the profession.

Our objective:

Attract and strengthen an innovative, thriving and diverse nursing workforce, empowered to advance equitable access and transform health care.

Our focus areas:

- Champion nursing as an innovative, high-impact, purpose-driven career
- Catalyze a healthy work environment
- Diversify, support and develop the nursing workforce
